

Utah's first-of-its kind data privacy law

Roger McDonough 11/04/2019

KCPW

Audio Link: <http://kcpw.org/media/podcast/2019/04/hivehb57.mp3>

Article Link: <http://kcpw.org/blog/in-the-hive/2019-04-11/utahs-first-of-its-kind-data-privacy-law/>

Today we explore a new, first-of-its-kind law in Utah requiring law enforcement to get a warrant to gather information from third parties like applications, websites, cell phone providers, and cloud storage sites. Who owns your information? Isn't that data already protected from unreasonable search and seizure under the U.S. Constitution? We hear from Marina Lowe, Legislative and Policy Counsel with the ACLU of Utah, and Pete Ashdown, founder of local internet service provider XMission.

Editor's note: XMission is a KCPW underwriter.